3.0 The inspection

3.1 How we inspect

RQIA's inspections form part of our ongoing assessment of the quality of services. Our reports reflect how the agency was performing against the regulations and standards, at the time of our inspection, highlighting both good practice and any areas for improvement. It is the responsibility of the provider to ensure compliance with legislation, standards and best practice, and to address any deficits identified during our inspections.

To prepare for this inspection we reviewed information held by RQIA about this agency. This included registration information, and any other written or verbal information received from service users, relatives, staff or the commissioning trust.

Throughout the inspection process inspectors will seek the views of those living, working and visiting the home; and review/examine a sample of records to evidence how the home is performing in relation to the regulations and standards.

Having reviewed the model "We Matter" Adult Learning Disability Model for NI 2020, the Vision states, 'We want individuals with a learning disability to be respected and empowered to lead a full and healthy life in their community'.

RQIA shares this vision and want to review the support individuals are offered to make choices and decisions in their life that enable them to develop and to live a safe, active and valued life. RQIA will review how service users who have a learning disability are respected, empowered to lead a full and healthy life in the community, and are supported to make choices and decisions that enables them to develop and live safe, active and valued lives.

Information was provided to service users, relatives, staff and other stakeholders on how they could provide feedback on the quality of services. This included service user questionnaires and an electronic survey for staff.

3.2 What people told us about the service and their quality of life

Throughout the inspection the RQIA inspector will seek to speak with service users their relatives or visitors and staff for their opinions on the quality of the care and support, their experiences of living, visiting or working in this agency.

Through actively listening to a broad range of service users, RQIA aims to ensure that the lived experience is reflected in our inspection reports and quality improvement plans.

We spoke to a service user, relatives and staff to seek their views of living within, visiting and working within Positive Futures Ards Peninsula Supported Living Services. Staff indicated they enjoyed working at the agency; management were supportive; and there was good teamwork.

The information provided from the service user and relatives indicated that there were no concerns in relation to the service. They described staff as "kind" and "well trained".

No staff or visiting professionals responded to the electronic survey or requests for feedback.

3.3 Inspection findings

3.3.1 Governance and Managerial Oversight

The agency's registration certificate was up to date and displayed appropriately along with current certificates of public and employers' liability insurance.

There were monitoring arrangements in place in compliance with regulations and standards. A review of the reports of the agency's quality monitoring established that there was engagement with service users, service users' relatives, staff and HSC Trust representatives. The reports included details of a review of a sample of service user' care records; accident/incidents; safeguarding matters; staff recruitment and training, and staffing arrangements.

There were processes in place to review the quality of the service on an annual basis. The Annual Quality Report was reviewed and was satisfactory.

There was a system in place to ensure that complaints are managed in accordance with the agency's policy and procedure. Staff demonstrated a good awareness of both the complaints procedure and whistleblowing policy. There was evidence of a system to ensure oversight of complaints; this included a review of complaints during the monthly quality monitoring visits. Details relating to the complaints process was included in the Statement of Purpose and Service Users Guide (SUG). The manager was advised to include the contact details for the Northern Ireland Public Sector Ombudsman (NIPSO) in the SUG. It was good to note user-friendly versions of these documents were available.

There was a selection of policies available to direct staff in care delivery and support planning based on individual risk assessments. Staff confirmed they had access to policies.

The service has an operational policy, procedure or protocol that clearly directs staff from the agency as to what actions they should take if they are unable to gain access to a service user's home. This policy includes information on how to manage and report such situations in a timely manner.

There was evidence of staff meetings, staff stated they could add to the meeting agenda if there were items they wished to discuss.

3.3.2 Staffing (recruitment and selection, induction and training).

Safe staffing begins at the point of recruitment and continues through to staff induction, regular staff training and ensuring that the number and skill of staff on duty meets the needs of service users.

A review of the agency's staff recruitment records confirmed that all pre-employment checks, including criminal record checks (AccessNI) were completed and verified before staff members commenced employment and had direct engagement with service users. Checks were made to ensure that staff were appropriately registered with the Northern Ireland Social Care Council (NISCC); there was a system in place for monitoring of professional registrations. Staff spoken with confirmed that they were aware of their responsibilities to keep their registrations up to date.

There was evidence that all newly appointed staff had completed a structured orientation and induction, having regard to the NISCC Induction Standards for new workers in social care, to ensure they were competent to carry out the duties of their job in line with the agency's policies and procedures. There was a robust, structured, three-day induction programme, which also included shadowing of a more experienced staff member. Written records were retained by the agency of the person's capability and competency in relation to their job role.

All registrants must maintain their registration for as long as they are in practice. This includes renewing their registration and completing Post Registration Training and Learning. Staff said they get an opportunity to discuss the post-registration training requirements during supervision and appraisal meetings.

Records of all staff training were available and there were mechanisms in place to support oversight of the training matrix to ensure compliance. There was good compliance with mandatory training.

Where service users required the use of specialised equipment to assist them with moving, this was included within the agency's mandatory training programme. A review of records confirmed that where the agency was unable to provide training in the use of specialised equipment, if this was identified by the agency before care delivery commenced, the agency may request this training from the HSC Trust.

There were no volunteers deployed within the agency.

3.3.3 Care Records

From reviewing service users' care records, it was good to note that service users had an input into devising their own plan of care. The service users' care plans contained details about their likes and dislikes and the level of support they may require. Care and support plans were kept under regular review. It was evident services users and /or their relatives participate in this process, where appropriate, and a review of the care provided is completed on an annual basis, or when changes occur.

There was a system in place to ensure that records were retrieved from discontinued packages of care in keeping with the agency's policies and procedures.

Discussions with staff and review of service users' care records reflected the multi-disciplinary input and the collaborative working undertaken to ensure service users' health and social care needs were met within the agency. There was evidence that staff made referrals to the multi-disciplinary team and these interventions were proactive, timely and appropriate.

3.3.4 Safeguarding

The agency's provision for the welfare, care and protection of service users was reviewed. The organisation's adult safeguarding policy and procedures were reflective of the Department of Health's (DoH) regional policy. The organisation had an identified Adult Safeguarding Champion (ASC). The agency's annual Adult Safeguarding Position report was satisfactory.

Discussions with the person in charge established that they were knowledgeable in matters relating to adult safeguarding, the role of the ASC and the process for reporting and managing adult safeguarding concerns.

Staff were required to complete adult safeguarding training during induction and every two years thereafter. Staff who spoke with the Inspector had a clear understanding of their responsibility in identifying and reporting any actual or suspected incidences of abuse and the process for reporting concerns in normal business hours and out of hours. They could also describe their role in relation to reporting poor practice and their understanding of the agency's policy and procedure with regard to whistleblowing.

The agency retained records of any referrals made to the HSC Trust in relation to adult safeguarding. A review of records confirmed that these had been managed appropriately. The person in charge was aware that RQIA must be informed of any safeguarding incident that is reported to the Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI).

3.3.5 Deprivation of Liberty Safeguards (DoL-S)

The Mental Capacity Act (MCA) provides a legal framework for making decisions on behalf of service users who may lack the mental capacity to do so for themselves. The MCA requires that, as far as possible, service users make their own decisions and are helped to do so when needed. When service users lack mental capacity to take particular decisions, any made on their behalf must be in their best interests and as least restrictive as possible.

Staff who spoke with the Inspector demonstrated their understanding that service users who lack capacity to make decisions about aspects of their care and treatment have rights as outlined in the MCA.

Staff had completed DoLS training appropriate to their job roles. The person in charge reported that a number of the service users were subject to DoLS and some restrictive practices were employed. There was evidence of robust governance and oversight of DoLS and use of restrictive practices. Where a service user was experiencing a deprivation of liberty, the care records contained details of assessments completed and agreed outcomes developed in conjunction with the HSC Trust representative.
